We invest in your investment to help the community

As one of the 16% of Australians that currently own an investment property, we understand the lengthy process you go through to lease your property and manage it ongoing. It is not surprising that 77% of you engage an agent to professionally manage this.

Home Ground Real Estate is Australia's first not for profit real estate agency.

15 years of experience in tenancy management gives us the expertise to maximise your return on investment at current market rates, and our commitment to reinvesting in housing support services means that your investment with us goes directly towards helping the broader community.

Take the journey with us and uncover the difference you could make to someone in need.
